

HEALTH RISK EVALUATION FOR CHINESE WORKPLACE EMPLOYEES IN 2018-2019

Catherine Zhu and Hua Fu

Public Health College of Fu Dan University, China

This article is mainly focusing on health risk evaluation on Chinese workplace employees in 2018-2019. This project is sponsored by a third party health consulting company and designed by domestic senior public health consultant and professionals from top public health universities. The results showed life satisfaction, lifestyle risk behaviour, emotional & mental risk factors, and general self-reported health status for employees and potential interactive influence among them.

Biography

Catherine Zhu is a licensed Chinese doctor and the member of Chinese Medical Doctor Association. She has completed her Master of Public Health & Occupational Health from Public Health College of Fu Dan University. She has 15-year experience on occupational health, workplace health management and coaching. Now she is the Sr. Health consultant for Mercer & Marsh, one of global leading consulting company.

Catherine_zj87@hotmail.com